MILLER BARBER

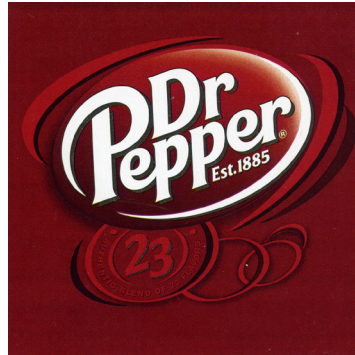

Miller Barber was a consistent contender on the PGA Tour during his career in the 1960s and '70s, and won 11 tournaments on that circuit before joining the Champions Tour in 1980. His senior career was even more spectacular. He won 24 titles on the Champions Tour, including a record three U.S. Senior Opens. His full swing was a sight to behold, an ungainly, flying elbow motion that was a source of fascination to all.

Barber won tournaments in eight consecutive PGA Tour seasons, a remarkable accomplishment, but never won a major. His 1,297 combined starts on the regular and senior tours is a record. Miller Barber spent a great deal of time in Sherman and was a longtime supporter of Grayson College. He lost his fight with cancer in June 2013.
